Deloitte

Re: Channel Sales Manager, Multi-Alliance Team

With 15 years of enterprise sales experience orchestrating complex, multi-stakeholder deals across two of the largest telecom carriers in the U.S., I am drawn to the Channel Sales Manager role within Deloitte's Multi-Alliance Activation team. Building coordinated go-to-market motions across alliance ecosystems is precisely what I do today at Spectrum, and I would welcome the opportunity to bring that discipline to Deloitte's multi-alliance growth agenda.

In my current role as Sales Manager at Spectrum Business Services, I lead a team of Enterprise Account Executives and Account Managers selling across connectivity, managed network, cloud, and voice portfolios. I coordinate joint sales motions between our internal account teams, Sales Engineering, and external technology partners to position multi-solution plays in priority accounts. I establish territory strategies, identify whitespace opportunities, and run weekly pipeline reviews that drive forecast accuracy and disciplined opportunity progression. This cross-functional orchestration mirrors the alliance activation and GTM coordination your role requires.

Previously, as a Technical Sales Consultant for Unified Communications at Spectrum Enterprise, I served as the primary SME partnering with account managers and hunters to qualify and close strategic enterprise opportunities. I built trusted advisor relationships with customer CTOs and IT directors, delivered executive-level presentations translating complex solutions architecture into measurable business value, and accelerated deal velocity by removing technical uncertainty from the buying process. Before that, as a Client Solutions Executive at AT&T, I managed a $9.5M portfolio of government, education, and healthcare accounts, earning the Diamond Club Award as the Top 1% of national sales performers. That portfolio was built through multi-year, multi-solution expansion within large matrixed accounts, exactly the kind of relationship-driven pipeline development Deloitte's MAA team is scaling.

I am proficient in Microsoft Office Suite and CRM systems, comfortable navigating ambiguity in large organizations, and based in Atlanta with full availability for the travel this role requires. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my alliance sales experience and enterprise sales leadership can contribute to the Multi-Alliance Activation team's growth objectives.

Sincerely,
