Mission Telecom

Re: Strategic Partnerships Executive I (Account Executive I)

With 15 years of enterprise telecom sales experience and a track record of managing $9.5M in account billing at AT&T, I bring exactly the partnership-driven sales approach that Mission Telecom's broadband expansion requires. Your mission to connect underserved communities through nonprofit and institutional partnerships aligns directly with the consultative, relationship-first methodology I have built my career on.

In my current role as Sales Manager at Spectrum Business Services, I lead a team of Enterprise Account Executives targeting mid-market and multi-location customers across connectivity, managed network, and voice portfolios. I establish structured prospecting cadences and activity benchmarks that drive consistent pipeline generation, exactly the kind of high-volume outbound discipline your 80-100 daily call requirement demands. Previously, as a Client Solutions Executive at AT&T, I managed a portfolio of government, education, and healthcare accounts, earning the Diamond Club Award as the Top 1% of national sales performers in 2013. These sectors mirror Mission Telecom's partner base of nonprofits, schools, libraries, and social service organizations.

Your requirement for CRM proficiency and cross-team collaboration matches my daily workflow. I use Salesforce extensively for pipeline management and forecast accuracy, and I partner closely with Sales Engineering, Marketing, and Technical Consulting teams to deliver proposals that translate complex connectivity solutions into measurable partner value. As a Georgia resident working remotely, I meet your location requirement and can represent Mission Telecom at conferences and events across the Southeast and nationwide.

I would welcome the chance to discuss how my enterprise telecom background and partnership development experience can accelerate Mission Telecom's broadband expansion goals.

Sincerely,

Lamin Traore
